The artworks of Silvia B. (NL, 1963) are intriguing because they create an impression that is both recognisable and alienating. Silvia B. blends emotional extremes, for example in sculptures where fragments of trees merge seamlessly into body parts. This gives rise to hybrid characters that reflect the human struggles of the modern age.

To bring diverse ideas to life, Silvia B. works across various disciplines, within which she explores and pushes the boundaries of technical possibilities. Highly alluring and yet somewhat repellent; Silvia B. explores the twilight zone between desires and fears.
